Saturday 25 March 2019, Winchester College Music School

Vaughan Williams

Toward the Unknown Region

Five Mystical Songs

Winchester Music Club invites you to join us for a choral workshop followed by a run through performance exploring two of Vaughan Williams' mini choral masterpieces. Composed in 1906, "Toward the Unknown Region" put Vaughan Williams on the map as a new and important voice in English music. It sets the words of the poem "Darest thou now, O soul" from Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass". "Five Mystical Songs", using a collection of poems by George Herbert, was composed over the next five years. The first four songs are quiet personal meditations with the final "Antiphon" a triumphant hymn of praise: "Let all the world in every corner sing".

The workshop will be led by David Thomas, Master of Music Winchester College and Music Director of Winchester Music Club, accompanied on the piano by Benjamin Cunningham with Andrew de Silva baritone soloist.
